

by Nadine Iben

Artist, Autodidact, Software Engineer, Mother

Biography

“My vision is to create a place where children and young people can try themselves and have space to practice and unlock their creativity.

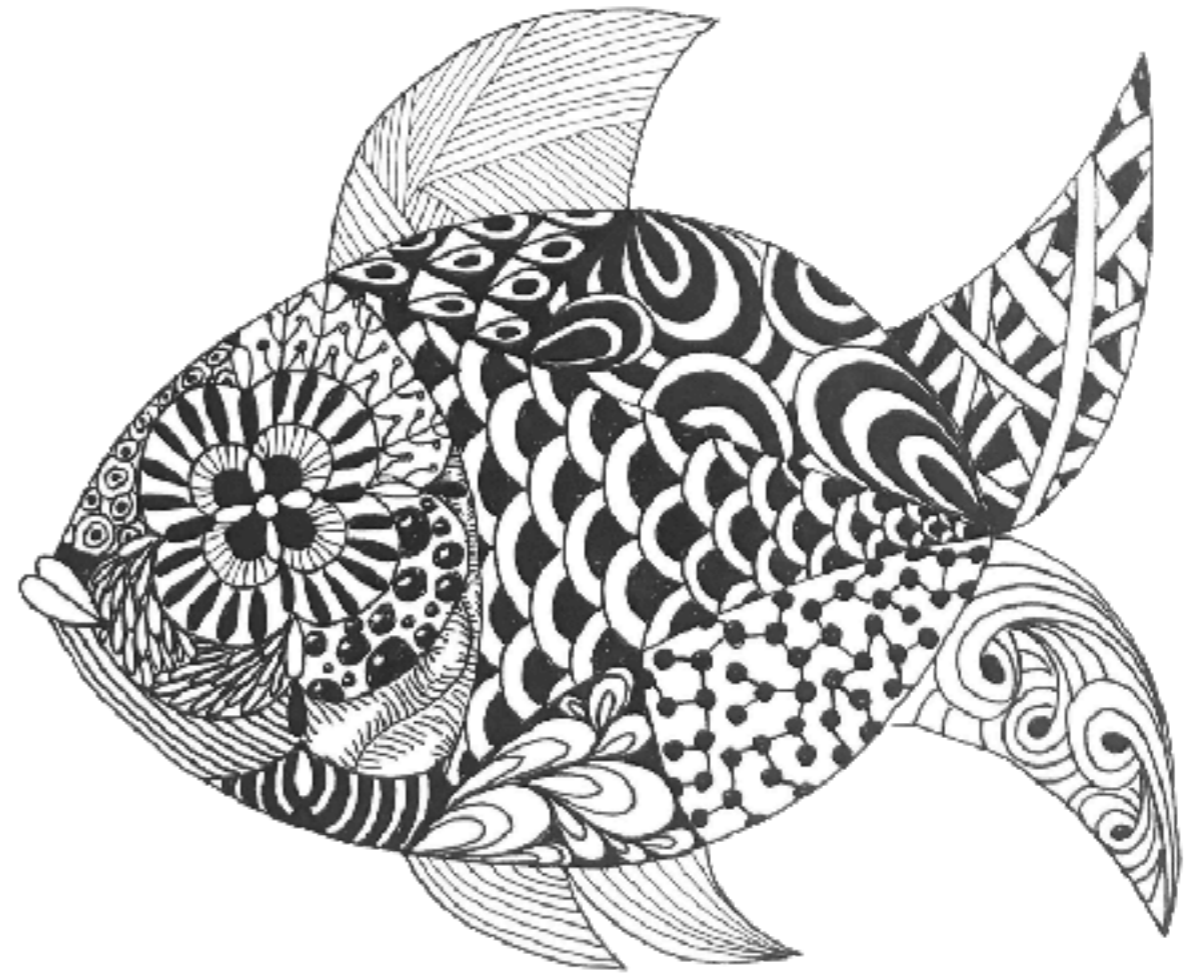

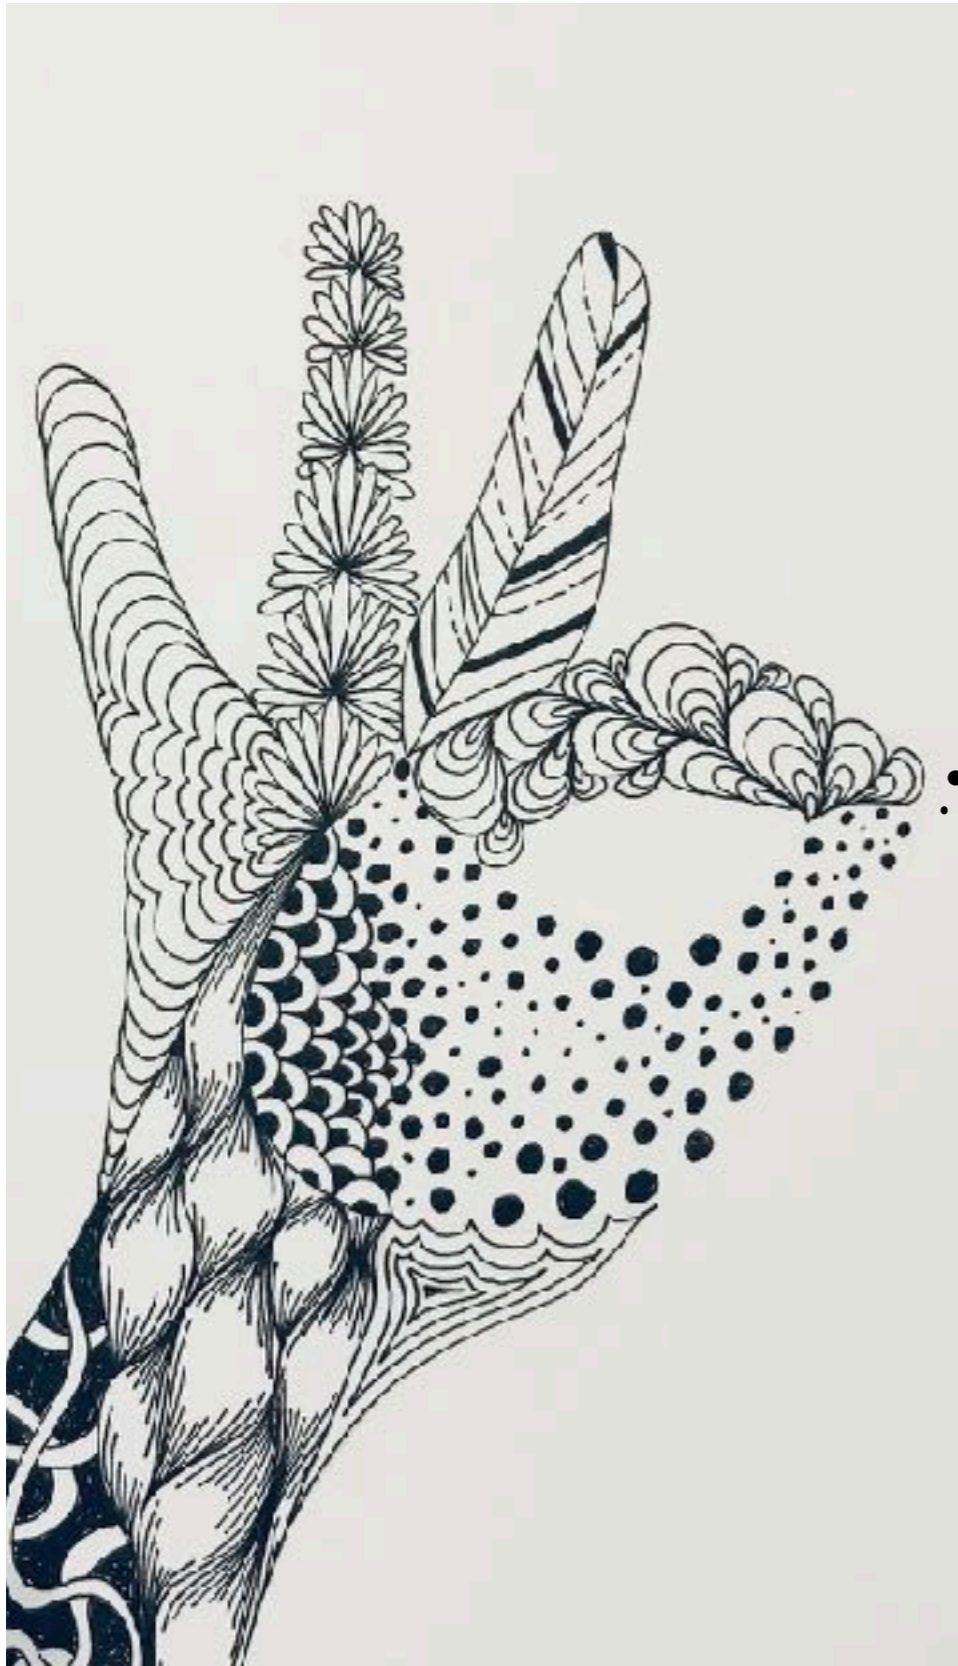

Especially in today's digital world it is important to have a place of retreat where children and young people can escape the social pressure and the media and meet each other in reality.”

I am an artist, software engineer, and mother currently living in Germany. My interests range from programming to painting.

Since the birth of our daughter, I am also interested in writing. Through her, I experience my childhood once again and have many impulses for children's stories.

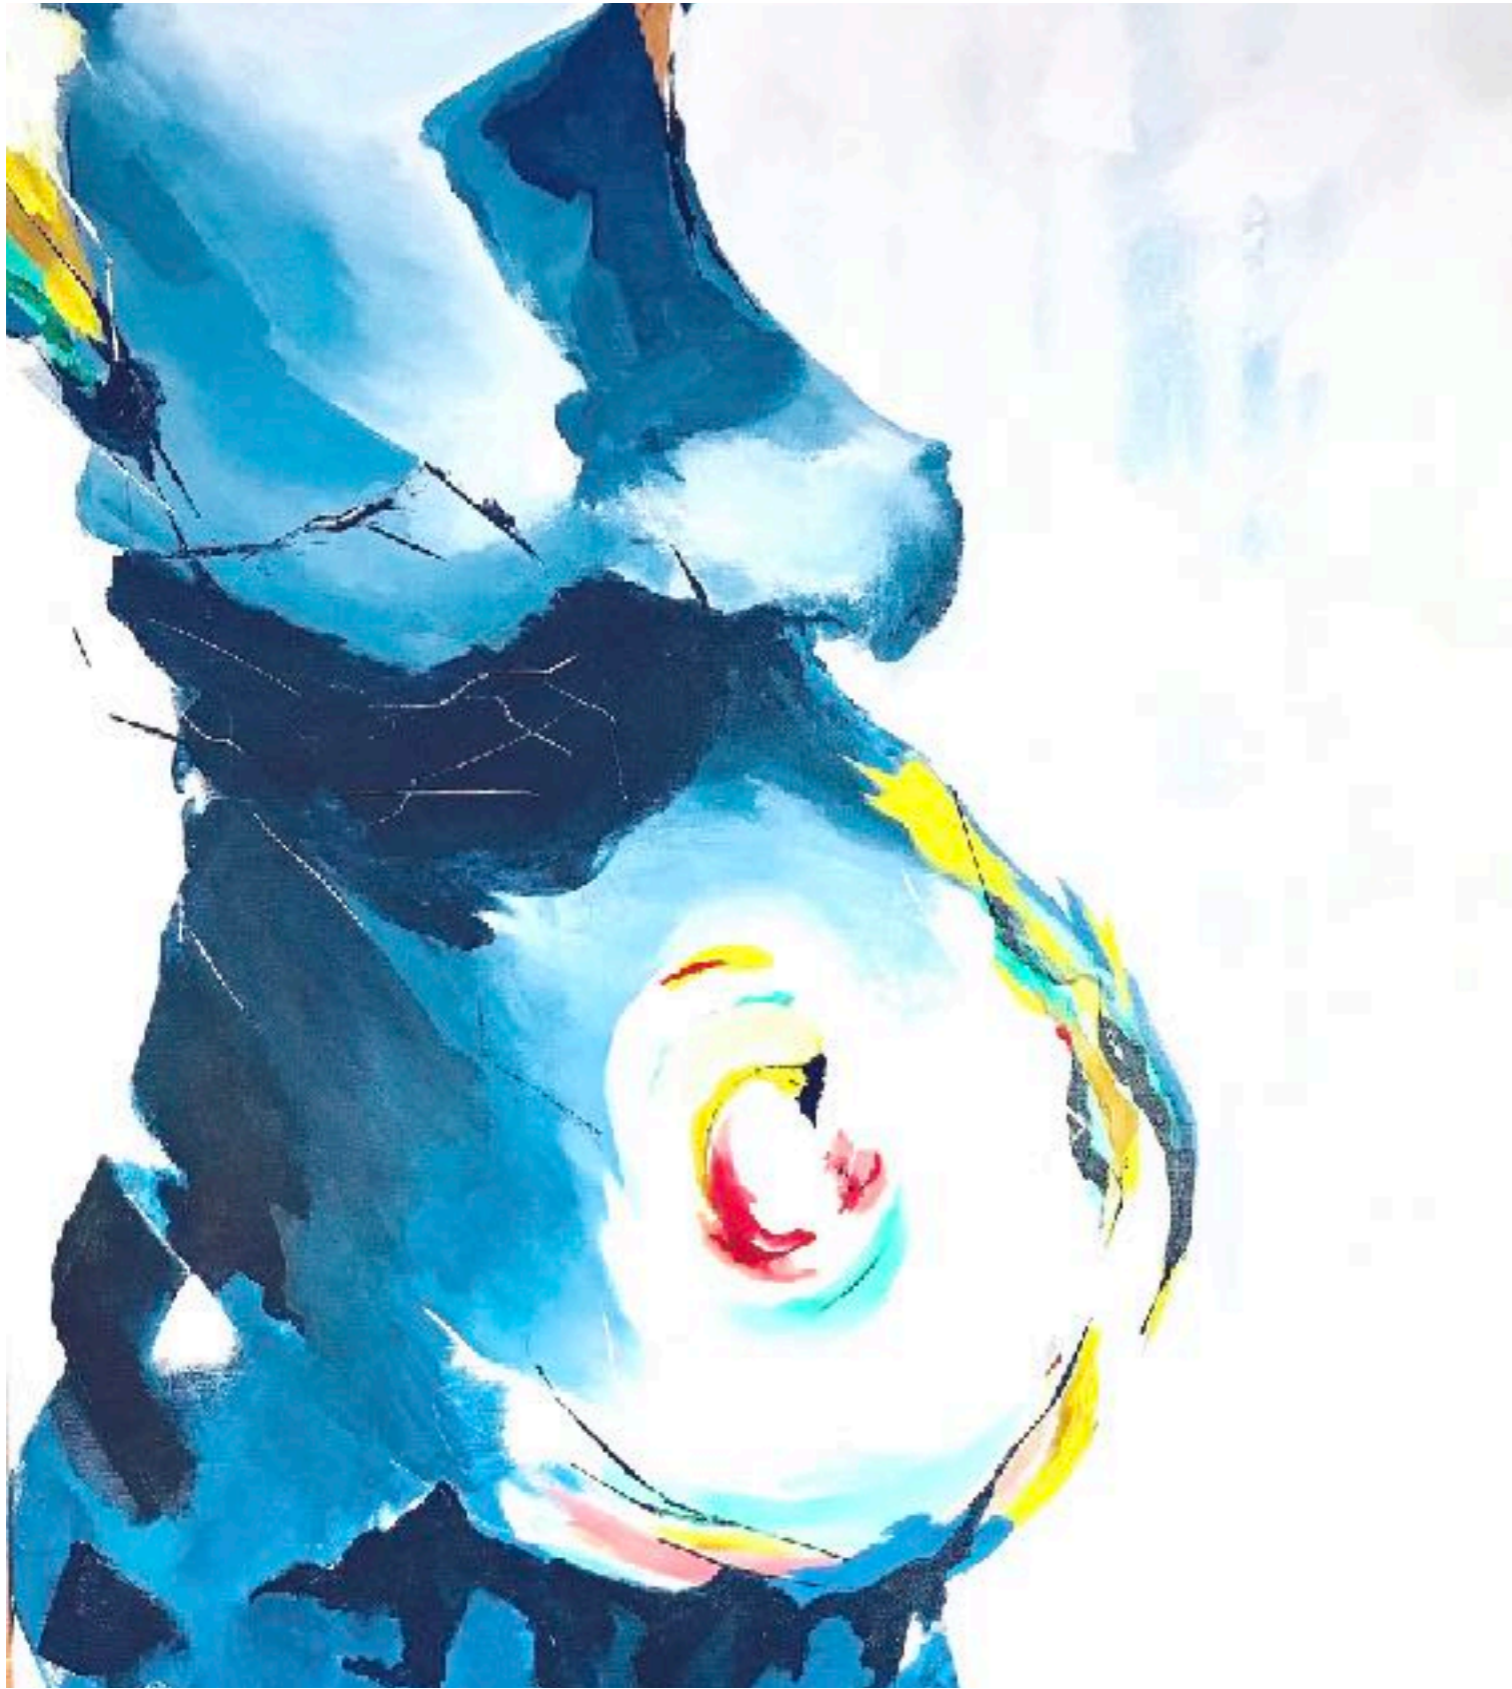

Want to know more about me? Visit gladly my website www.nadine-iben.de
Also you can write me to kontakt@nadine-iben.de or call me at +45 1525 3040890.

Doodles

The best way to waste time is to escape into creative patterns and forget everything else around you.

Acrylic Paintings

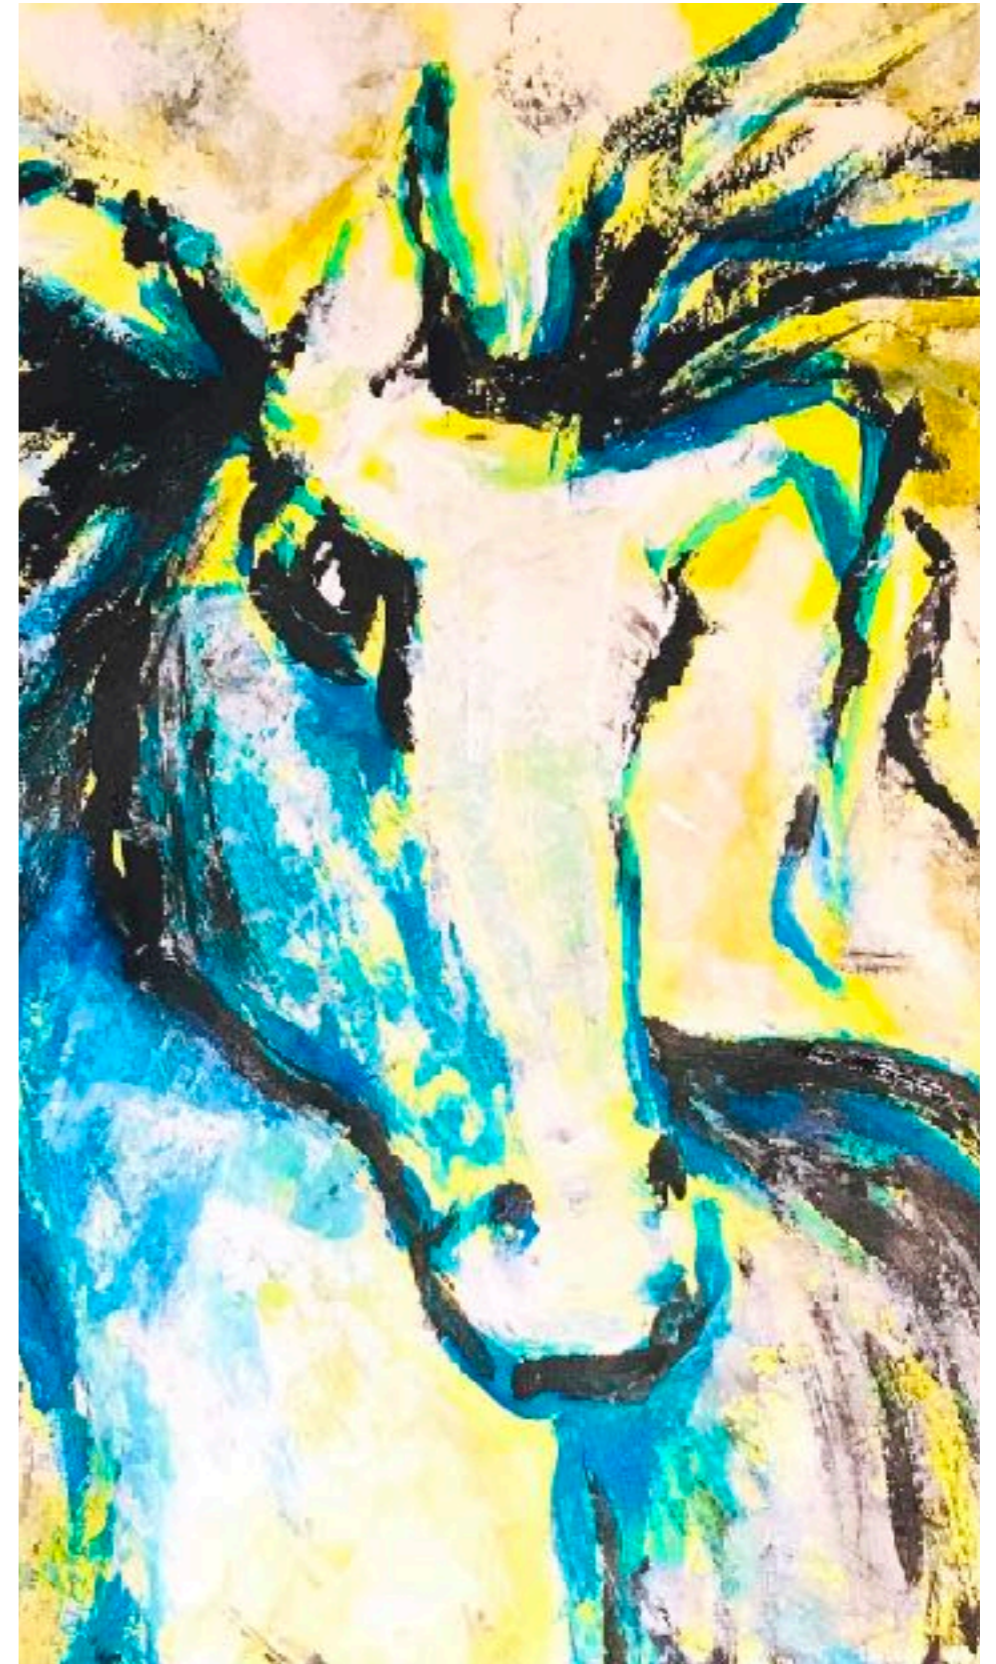

When painting I am always inspired by the energy of my motivation which I gain through my orders. I let all this flow into the paintings.

Sketches

Having a notebook and pen with is a must. Sketching allows to capture moments and ideas that you can work with later on.

Inspiration

I gain the most inspiration from working with other people. It is incredibly fun to get impulses from others and to realise new ideas.